Robin Hood, eat your heart out! Over many years our team of qualified instructors has developed a simplified coaching method which allows all participants to learn quickly, and shoot more consistently and accurately than you would have ever thought possible in such a short space of time!

Our archery team will give you the best tuition possible in this popular and well established sport. We have both children's and adult's bows and the minimum age to take part in this activity is eight. Four people can shoot at a time using two targets and we can supply as many additional targets as are needed for your guests.

The team has to work together to work out how to piece together a human powered 'Ben Hur' chariot-all parts must be correctly constructed before moving onto the next part of the activity.

Having completed the build they must then manoeuvre their chariot through a slalom course as many times as they can, but with blindfolded 'horses' & one sighted passenger. Teams will be penalised for hitting any of the cones that mark out the course.

Teams must then dismantle the chariot & return all bits of kit to how they found them when they started the activity.

All three aspects of the activity must be carried out within the set time period to avoid any penalties.

This is guaranteed to be a fantastic and very amusing communication exercise.

We offer a wide and varied selection of challenges that are not only fun but can be tailored to a theme of your choice or focused on bringing out particular skills from your team to ensure they are working as a cohesive and tight-knit unit. All the activities are fully inclusive, encourage participants to think logically in groups and work together to resolve the immediate problem and achieve a common goal.

Most challenges can be undertaken indoors or out, and can be grouped together to create an assault course style activity, joined onto other activities or used as an energising activity for break-out sessions within a conference.

If you're looking for something exciting which will bring out the hunter in you, this is the activity for you. Everyone from teenagers upwards (minimum age is 13) can take part in laser clay pigeon shooting, which is played with authentic but deactivated 12-bore shotguns that have been fitted with harmless laser equipment.

Our team of experienced instructors will brief the participants on how to handle the gun, and will be on hand to give tuition and guidance throughout. The equipment generates the shotgun "bang" and when a player hits the target the sound effects of a clay shattering can be heard.

Indicators on the gun instantly tell the player whether they have hit the target and the scores for all competitors are displayed on an electronic scoreboard.

With one system, five guests can shoot at a time but groups of 15 can play in a 40 minute session.

Alternatively we can add a second system which will allow 10 guests to shoot at the same time.

Our classic masterpiece event recreating a Picasso image works well for groups of up to 42 guests. For larger groups we can create a custom made piece of art or add this activity as a stand-alone event in rotation with other activities.

Your teams will become amateur artists in this creative based artistic challenge. Although many team building activities focus on team vs. team, masterpiece ensures teams are working together to achieve a common goal. Although initially working as separate teams, everyone soon realises that the real challenge is to work closely with the other teams to ensure they effectively re-create a Picasso masterpiece.

Once the painting stage is complete all the teams then come together and with co-operation, team work and of course communication, as the vibrant individual pieces are brought together to create the 'masterpiece'.

The larger painting is mounted to create a 'take away' memento of the exercise, which when displayed back at the office acts as a daily reminder of each individuals' potential for creativity and the whole teams' collective output.

This is a truly stunning activity which never fails to bring a wonderful sense of achievement to all involved.

Objectives- Your objective is to score as many points as possible, as a team, before the clock runs out. You are in competition with the other teams.

Choosing tasks- Every task has a page dedicated to it in this book. On each task page you will find specific information about:

- What the challenge entails
- Where the challenge is performed
- What equipment you will need, and where you can find it
- How many team members are required to complete the task
- How many points the challenge is worth.

Task levels- For each task there are 3 levels of difficulty, the easiest tasks are worth one point and the most difficult tasks are worth 3 points. On some challenges you will be required to state which level you will attempt, as you can only attempt one; will you take the easy points or gamble by attempting the harder task? On other tasks you will have no choice; you will simply be awarded the points for the highest level you achieve. The scenario is always stated on the task page.

Compulsory tasks / Optional tasks- Look out for the compulsory tasks - a number of the tasks are compulsory, so please ensure you allocate time to do these. Other tasks are optional.

Scoring- Most of the tasks require you to present your results to a member of the TAG event team. You should take your Task Book with you and when the challenge is complete the TAG event team will stamp the appropriate box on the task page. It is your responsibility to tear out the page and hand it in at the Scoring Station.

Your guests will be welcomed and introduced to 'The cube', which can be branded with logos or images.

The guests will be divided into teams; each team will be set a series of exciting and challenging activities in which they can earn one of the smaller cubes.

- Some are fast and furious
- Some are logical
- Some are guessing more accurately than the other teams
- Some are relatively easy to achieve
- Some are harder than others
- Some will require only one or two team members
- Some will require the whole team

All are lots of fun...

The activity is fundamentally collaborative as all the teams work towards rebuilding the cube at the activities conclusion.
